

Voluntary Student Unionism (VSU) is a plan of the Liberal government to shut down the ability of student organisations to represent and advocate for students. Both the UTS Union and UTS Students' Association provide essential services such as scholarships, childcare and legal assistance. We also allow uni life to be much easier - by supporting campus life through clubs, events, assistance with academic appeals or taking on the government for student rights.

Why are they doing this?

The government wants to make student unions ineffective because, more often than not, they disagree with government decisions.

Over the last few years, the government has increased your HECS, put a 7 year time limit of degrees, cut billions and billions from higher education, banned same sex marriage, and are trying to limit access to abortion + heaps of other stuff they'd rather be kept quiet.

What can you do?

Talk to your friends in your classes

Take a petition to your class (pick up from students' association)

Come to the Education Action Group Wednesday at 2pm, level 3 tower building (at the students' association)
